If you want to start your ESL class in style, with students speaking, share ideas and have fun, then you will need to consider using these Adult Conversation Starter. Have fun! #1: If I won the lottery This is probably my favorite ESL conversation topic. Students describe what they would do or what they would buy if they won the lot. I usually specified an amount of $1,000,000. This is enough that you can do almost everything you want, but it is not too unreasonable- forces students to priority. The way students answer this question reveals a lot about them! Try one of the most engaging ESL discussion themes. #2 ESL Question of conversation: List of buckets Students must think of five things they want to do before they die. You can give some examples to get them started, but most people are quite familiar with this concept. This is a good question to find out what students appreciate most in life. It can also be a nice heating for a drive on the road. #3: Guilty Pleasures This is one of the most interesting ESL conversation questions for adults. Explain to students what is a guilty pleasure – they will probably not know the term in English. So, it's time for confession! I love this question because students often mention a transhy television show they watch. And, I usually confess to watching Continue with the Kardashians. #4: Things you've learned Lately Make students think about two orthings they could not do as a child, but they can do now. Underline that it is related to a skill of some kind or you will only get answers like drinking or smoking. This is one of the best ESL conversation topics for adults. #5: Last purchase Students talk about the last thing they bought that was more than $100. This is one of the most interesting ESL conversation questions. #6: You are the President Your students can talk about what their first three priorities would be if they were the president of their country. It is one of the best ESL conversation questions for teenagers or adults. #7: Favorite Things ESL Conversation Question Students submit questions with the start, "What is your favorite ...". Collect documents, choose the top three and then students have to answer. Or, you can distribute a couple of cards to each small group and can discuss different things. More ESL conversation topics Want to explore other ESL conversation questions? Then you want to check this video below: #8: Horoscope Find some daily or monthly horoscopes online. Students read their descriptions and see if they match. It's funny enough because horoscopes are so open to various interpretations. #9: People in your life Who are the three people who spend more time these days? What qualities do you appreciate for each person? ESL Discussion #10: The best decision Students think of a difficult decision they made but thatconfident that they made the right choice. #11: Dream Vacation If students had $10, 000 (or equivalent in your local currency) and a long rest period from work, where would they go? #12: 100 days left You just went to the doctor and found out you had a rare disease. You only have 100 days left, so how will you spend that time? Adult conversation appetizers ESL #13: 5 The things in common Students must go with a partner, and then find five things they share in common. Things like favorite foods, sports they love to play, favorite day of the week, first language, home life, etc. Encourage students to try to find things that are not obvious as they are both in your class together, or who live in the ABC city. #14: What can you cook? Is there a food you can cook really well and your family or friends love to eat? It can also be something very simple. Do you have any advice for anyone else who wants to do this? #15: What do you want to learn? If you had 10 free hours a week, and you could learn 1 new skill, what would it be and why? #16: Dream Job What is your ideal job? Why? This is one of the most interesting ESL conversation questions for high school or university students. #17: If the school was free... If a university education was free, and you got paid a basic salary to attend, could you never stop being a student? Why or why not? Or, could you have a job? #18: Movies, Books and TV Shows What do you spend your time watching or reading? What is it?favorite movie, or what's next you'd like to watch. #19: Bad Habits If you change one of your personal habits without any effort, what would it be? Sleep late? Smokers? Haven't you practiced enough? Eat chips? How are you feeling? Do you want to change or don't you care? If you want to focus on superlative adjectives, you may change the question to: "What is your worst habit? And your best?" The habits are one of the best conversation topics for adults. #20: Best holidays ESL Convo Topic Students can talk about the best vacation they were in. You can mention things like food, time, activity, etc. Generally I start this out quickly telling students about a recent vacation I took. Adult conversation approach #21: Family ESL A classic conversation topic for adults is the family. After all, most people grow in one and then have a new one later in life. That's why there are so many things to talk about. And, of course, everyone has opinions on how they should look! #22: Christmas (or equivalent holiday) Everyone has ideas on which are the best traditions and activities to do for Christmas, or any holiday is more popular in the country where you are teaching. This can lead to interesting discussions about things such as values, family and consumerism. #23: How to spend $1000 frivolously This is a fun ESL convo argument that gets everyone to say how to spend $500, with the requirement thatmust be made with clay. That is, it cannot be used to invest, pay bills, etc. Give some examples of how someone might be on the road while someone else might go into a waste of shopping. #24: Favourite season Each has a favorite season (and less favored). Students can talk if they love spring, summer, fall or winter best and give some reasons why, as well as what they do not like and why. #25: Future Predictions ESL Conversation Topic Making some predictions about the future is a fun adult conversation starter. I usually refer to the theme of the day as extreme time, politics, sports events, pop culture, etc. It is definitely one of my favorite ESL convo topics and students usually find this unit quite interesting. Topics of ESL What to say about Discussion Kids Approachers? Some of these questions like what you would do if you were the president or a dream vacation are great for children. However, some of them of course are not as a guilty pleasure! If you teach children, then check this list specifically for them: Conversation Starters for Kids. What about ESL Conversation Topics based on a Grammar Point? Maybe you've already had this experience? You're teaching a certain grammatical point as conditional or infinitive and tell students to ask questions using that specific grammar. Total silence! Of course, it's not the students' fault. It is not that they have been giveninformation to work with. Instead, give them some ESL Conversation starters and you will probably have much better results. You can certainly use conversation questions based on a certain grammar point instead of organizing them in a topical way as you would with a vocabulary lesson.
